Faculty Resign, Five Take Leave of Absence

There will be seven professors in the Mary Washington faculty going on leave of absence for the 1961-62 session, it announced by Chancellor Vladimir Brenner, professor of Modern Foreign Languages and his degree from the State of Moscow. He is an assistant professor at the University of Moscow, Russia. Helen Coting is leaving chemistry department. She will be replaced by two new professors at George Peabody College and did research work for the Change In Mr. Major Next Year

Students interested in an art at Mary Washington College may select either of two majors in the future. During the 1961-62 session and after, the former major in art history and studio art will be replaced by two new majors. The art history major will be replaced by two new majors in art history and studio art.

Additional Class
To complete the necessary hours for the art history major, a student may take additional class in studio art, as well as more related subjects from advanced literature, philosophy, classics, survey of history, mythology, history of civilization and others. The major in studio art will be replaced by two new majors in art history and studio art.

Add Studio Art
The art classes beyond the first eighteen hours may be as long as each studio is balanced by a credit in history. Art 40-102, Drawing Design, will be prerequisite for other studio classes, unless standing be proven. Previous training and experience of work, French, German and Italian recommended as particularly suitable languages for art students in good standing to elect art classes if no prerequisite is required.

Graduation Activities Set For June 3, 4

Commencement and Baccalaureate services for the graduation class of 1961 will take place on Sunday, June 3. Charles S. Webster will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at that morning in G. W. Gymnasium. Governor J. Day Almond will give the commencement address at the graduation ceremony in G. W. Gymnasium at 3 p.m. Seats will be reserved for graduation exercises. An academic procession to the college drive will precede the ceremony. The Colgate Award will be presented to the senior with the highest academic average during her four years of college, and Dr. Simpson will deliver a farewell address.

Chancellor and Mrs. Simpson honor the graduating class with a buffet supper at Broomfield Hall, June 3. That evening a farewell party for seniors will take place at Ball

Recital Is In duPont

The Mary Washington College music department will present a student recital this evening at 8:45 P. M. in the duPont Little Theatre. Beginning the program will be Charlotte Vaughn playing "Cherise Prelude" by Brahms on the organ. Also at the organ will be Joyce Wilbrey playing "Variation" by Mendelssohn. Judith Bressler, a mezzo-soprano, will sing "The Rose Tree" by Schubert and "On Wings" by Mendelssohn.

Patricia O'Brynn will play the piano arrangements of "Sonata in A" by Paradisi. Carol Thompson will play "May Night" by Palmgren and "Ballad by Brahms" by Brahms. Singing "Clouds" by Charles and "The Little Shepherd's Song" by Schubert will be Carolyn White, a soprano. Playing "Prelude" by Schramm and "Dance" by Debussy will be Mary Anne Harrison. Also at the piano will be Joanne Frank playing "Saraband" and "Toccata" by Debussy. Mary Sanchez, a pianist, will play "Die Lorelei" by Liszt and "Gesellschafts Wiesen" by Brahms. She will be accompanied by Anne Kramer on the violin.

Marilyn Morgan will play "Goethe's Song" by Brahms. The piano accompanists for the recital will be Mary Jane Fitzpatrick and Betty Jean Williams.

Clements Heads Barfield Staff

Elaine Clements, a chemistry major from Falls Church, is the editor of the Barfield for 1961-62. Elaine has served on the Barfield staff since her freshman year. Her position for the past year was photography editor. A junior class representative in the May Court, she is president of the Pencil Club. Elaine is the daughter of the late Mrs. R. C. Clements. Her parents recently taught for membership in Mortar Board.

Another Mortar Board member, Ethel Hill, who served as business manager this year, will continue in that position. Randy Coates is assistant editor, and Sheila Cooper serves as advertising manager.

The Barfield will be distributed before exams begin. This will be the first year that the staff has published a supplement containing pictures of campus activities occurring after the yearbook had gone to press.

Library Building To Begin Construction Starts in Fall

Construction Starts in Fall

Tentative construction plans for the addition to the rear of the E. Lee Trinkle Library were released this week by Mr. Edgar Woodward, Bureau of Planning. Actual work will not begin until late summer or early fall of this year. The five-story addition is still in the blueprint stage of planning. The completion of the building is expected by September of 1962. The plans allow for several new reading and periodical rooms, more stack area, new offices for the library staff, and a general expansion of study area. Some aspects of the present space will be revised including the removal of the card catalogs to a new location to allow for display windows on the ground floor. Mr. Woodward stated that there is a possibility that the present lighting will be revised and that certain sections of the library will be air-conditioned.

This new addition will enlarge the present 160,000 book capacity to one which will make possible the housing of approximately 250,000 volumes. This will make the E. Lee Trinkle Library one of the largest in the state of Virginia for an undergraduate, liberal arts college, according to Mr. Woodward.

The new addition is made possible by a $400,000 grant from the state legislature. Plans for the construction were begun early last year.

Professors Win University Grants

Three Mary Washington College professors received research grants this spring from the Research Council of the University Center in Virginia. The grants are given to professors in recognition of their research in their fields. The grants are given to professors in recognition of their research in their fields.

Students Show Art in duPont

Students Show Art in duPont

Commencing the spring art exhibit in duPont Hall, the Schenck Award was presented to Ann Elkes, senior art major. The exhibition opened May 5 and will continue through May 31. Included in the exhibition are paintings, pottery, sculptures, pen and ink drawings, water colors, and graphic prints.

The Schenck Award, a cash award given to a most promising senior in the oil painting class, was named for Mr. Emil Schenck, professor at Mary Washington, who died in 1938. The donor of this award wishes to recognize the fine work of the students in the oil painting class.

Ann Elkes, from Franklin, New Jersey, has several paintings in the exhibition. Her most outstanding, "Girl Knitting" won two awards in an exhibition sponsored by the Fredericksburg Women's Club and Department of Recreation. It was first in the oil painting class and first in the show.

Although, for this painting, Ann had a model, Noreen Galt (also a senior), it is not considered a portrait, but semi-realistic. Included in the pottery exhibition are photographs of the complete process of pottery, from the wheel to the finished product. Also on exhibition are examples of hand-built pots and some of the white stoneware.

Judy Youngman, Ann Hopewell, and Mary Washington College are featured in a film recently released by the United States Marine Corps for recruiting purposes. The movie was viewed by members of the administration and students last week.

The film, approximately fourteen minutes long, devotes the first four minutes completely to the campus of MWC with actual candid shots of students, students, and buildings.

The film emphasizes the career possibilities for college graduates in the women's division of the Marine Corps. Shooting was done in June of 1960.

Awareness of the possibilities of self is the first step to wisdom said Phyllis Pierce, who was the main speaker at the Senior Convocation, May 9.

Awareness of the possibilities of self give to the world a competent individual made free by recognizing these possibilities, she further stated. A person who recognizes these possibilities is prepared to make decisions and to plan a good life.

Development is not always assured by exposure, but development, "are symbols of the cognizance of the possibilities of self."

The speech was the climax to the last formal convocation of the year, sponsored by the Senior Class and dedicated this year to the faculty in appreciation of their desire for us to excel.

After the welcome by class president, Barbara Uhl, the Mary Ann Baby class history, recited the class history. Each year was a parody on the work of a famous author. The seniors were presented with the Kiwanis Award and the Thomas Jefferson Cup respectively.

The Kiwanis Cup is given by the Fredericksburg club to the senior who has made the largest contribution to the school over her four years in college.

The Thomas Jefferson Cup is awarded by the Kiwanis Association to the senior who possesses among other qualities, poise, sincerity, good academic standing and is generous with her time and her service to her school. Mrs. Walter B. Kelly, a former student, presented the award.

With Chancellor Simpson accepting, Nancy Jacobs presented the program with the singing of "The Lord's Prayer."

Are You Frightened?

Are you frightened—frightened that your world will be shaken up by an authoritarian force? This question was posed in an economics class and a shocking number of girls sitting in Monroe, on the Mary Washington Campus in the land of the free and the home of the brave answered—"Yes."

Shocking? Yes! Shocking! We do not live in a pacific world; we never have; we never will. There will always appear a threat from some force, or it may stem from within ourselves. Man has never been free of fear; he never will be.

When one spends a great amount of time dwelling on the challenging aspects of mere living and then measuring the extent of his fear, he may soon find he has been destroyed by wasting precious time being frightened.

We do not have time to be frightened. It's a luxury whose price we cannot pay. We cannot be frightened we will fail a test, not get a job, lose someone we love, or that the United States will be conquered by the communist flame. Spend your time being frightened and you will find someone has been using that time to obtain the thing you want.

Fear can be valuable. It can reveal the colossus of the struggle that awaits us, and warn that time cannot be lost residing in a state of fright. Most people know fear, but the test is to know it and live in spite of it.

Has the only thing that we have learned from some twenty years of living is to be frightened? Have we not discovered faith and the courage to struggle for the things we want? Is our heritage to spend the rest of our lives being frightened? Is life so terrible that we must take refuge in fear and not face the world.

Our generation was not taught to be frightened; we learned it ourselves. Youth is not the time of fear. It is the time of bravery, rebellion, and dreams. When it is asked "What is the matter with our country?" shall the answer be "The people are frightened?"

The First Steps

The plan for pre-registration of rising seniors who expect to student-teach, put into effect this semester, is a major step forward toward a solution of the problem of fall registration.

This, however, is only the beginning, the first move.

We've noticed great improvement in the recently announced exam calendar for the 1961-1962 session and in the new activities period in the afternoon. An excellent beginning but it is still only a beginning.

The success of pre-registration for student teachers should lead to a broader program, including all sophomores and upperclassmen.

By listing possible course offerings in the spring and tentative hours in which they will be taught, the college will eliminate the frustrating and time consuming melee of fall registration.

A particular advantage of a plan like this would be a better idea of which courses are desired by most students, thereby allowing more appropriate class schedule in the fall.

The complaint has often been voiced, particularly by upperclassmen, that advanced courses in their major fields are frequently scheduled simultaneously. In cases like this, particularly when the courses concerned are taught only in alternating years, students are often forced to select important courses.

This problem, along with another, the lack of variety in advanced courses, could possibly be lessened by pre-registration for all upperclassmen.

In addition to allowing a more favorable selection of classes for students, this would cut down on the scheduling problems for faculty members.

With a good idea of what courses are most desired, the faculty would have more accurate knowledge of the number of sections needed in each area. Knowing this in advance, they would be able to plan accordingly over the summer months and not be forced to make drastic course revisions in the fall. This plan would also lessen the chances of an instructor teaching a class of four or five in one course and forty or fifty in another.

Mary Washington has advanced considerably toward the solution of scheduling problems this year but this progress is still only the first step in achieving a more helpful arrangement both for students and for the faculty.

Sick, Sick, Sick!

Has your first year at college been an unsuccessful one, freshman? You can say you have had trouble being accepted by your classmates and worse than that you have been shunned by the upperclassmen? Repeat now, Don't spend another miserable year being completely out of it.

Without even knowing the particulars of each individual failure, a general diagnosis would probably prove valid in most cases. You don't understand College Humor. Chances are that if you have come from a relatively normal background, you will find this difficult to comprehend. It is hard for novices to realize the hilarity of defying authority, for instance. Pulling the wool over the eyes of parental, administrative, or legal authorities makes an admirable anecdote to relate at any place where particular people congregate. The competition is stiff, however, and bigger and better accomplishments are always in demand. The outstanding raconteur each week wins the Wit of the Week Award. The title might well be altered to include the title of Wit of the Year.

Other methods of gaining popularity include the observation of the fact that anyone who is not exactly like you in every way is an absolute riot—or you might say—as funny as a crutch. This category spotlights people of other religions, races and financial situations.

A third group consists of the mentally and physically handicapped. They can be really hysterical.

Life is just one big cruelly joke, freshmen, so try and adjust to it and next year, with experience, you too can win friends and influence people.

Peace Corps Test Dates Announced

Candidates for the Peace Corps to want to begin their service this summer will be tested May 22 or June 5 for their fitness for one project already announced and others now being explored.

The Peace Corps is actively recruiting for engineers, surveyors, geologists, teachers of English as a second language, community development workers and agricultural extension workers.

Liberal arts graduates will be particularly qualified for openings in the teaching of English and in community development. The Peace Corps will provide the special training they will need in the project to which they are assigned.

The Peace Corps Entrance Test should also be taken by anyone interested in joining the corps at any time in the future.

Surveys, geologists and civil engineers are needed for surveying a secondary road system in parts of Tanganyika, a project announced last week by President Kennedy. Similar work will be needed in projects in other countries. Peace Corps Volunteers will most likely serve in Latin America, Africa, South Asia or anywhere a need exists. Several projects will be announced in May and June.

Robert Sargent Shriver, Director of the Peace Corps, said one of the greatest demands will be for people to teach English. "We have received many questions from liberal arts graduates asking where they could fit into the Peace Corps," Shriver said.

Not Expert

"They believe that because they are not expert with a slide rule, they have no function to perform."

"The Peace Corps needs men as much as it needs women. For example, they can be taught how to teach English either as a first or second language to other people in the training they will receive."

It is anticipated that many teachers of English will be placed in both primary and secondary schools by the end of the year in countries in Africa, Asia and Latin America. There also have been requests for secondary school teachers of mathematics, biology, chemistry and physics.

Another major need will be to supply volunteers who know farming methods. Here, the degree of technical knowledge is not as much required as a thorough grasp of farming and its basic tools.

Candidates who have a questionnaire on file with the Peace Corps Headquarters will be notified of the time and place of examination by the middle of May. There will be few exceptions; this will not have to travel long distances to a testing center.

Volunteer forms are obtainable at any post office, from members of Congress, from county agricultural agents, and from colleges and universities.

Those who have not filled out a questionnaire do so at the testing center and will be allowed to take the test if circumstances permit.

The May 7 general examination will be held at the following locations:

Letter

To the Editor of the Bulletin:

Anyone who attends the Saturday night movie but who must be aware of the poor quality of the audience. The college does a commendable job of procuring outstanding films for our enjoyment. Many of us look forward to the weekly movie and attend only to find that it is impossible to sit back and watch, undisturbed by the rude remarks on the part of the audience. Often the objectionable comments are made by those who have invited themselves to the campus and who are taking advantage of one of the privileges granted to Mary Washington students and faculty.

We recognize that some action be taken to prevent their attendance.

However, these young men are not the only ones at fault. Many Mary Washington girls are also involved. Such an impolite audience not only ruins the movie for other students and the faculty, but presents a very deplorable and embarrassing impression for Fredericksburg residents and other visitors to the college.

Such immature actions on the part of an audience would be inexcusable at any college or university. It should be enough to call this to the attention of the student body; it certainly would be humiliating to have the administration take action. However, if the student body cannot share respect for others, we recommend that some action be taken for the sake of the reputation of the school and for the benefit of those who come to profile from the movie.

Optional tests will measure their skills in such areas as teaching ability, farming and animal husbandry, basic mechanics and engineering, basic health and codd care.

There will be no such mark as a passing score. Different projects will require different abilities and someone who scores low in one area may score high in others that he becomes the ideal person to pick for assignment.

Nicholas Hobbs, Director of Selection for the Peace Corps, said, "A Peace Corps volunteer must first of all be competent. He must be able to do a job well. These tests will measure job competence. Later tests and interviews will assess personality qualifications."

The total testing time is estimated to be a half day. The results will be scored by the Educational Testing Service.

EXCHANGE: Colleges Hold Art Festivals

By ANN RADWAY

The Sweet Briar College Bowling team was victorious on the television program over the Hanover College team April 30. The Sweet Briar team returned to defend its championship against the Johns Hopkins University team on Sunday, May 7.

The second annual Festival of Religious Art is currently taking place at Virginia Tech. Sponsored by the Wesley Foundation.

Columbia Records Rituals

Columbia Records now has an album, Pagan Festival, in which Dominic Frontiere and his orchestra explore the exotic rituals of the ancient Inca civilization.

The music is mystical and suspenseful too. It is a series of sometimes haunting, sometimes joyous melodies with a brooding background of chants and muted drums.

With such titles as "House of Dawn," "Festival," "The Harvest and 'Jaguar God,'" the album paints mystical pictures of the beauty and mystery of the Incas.

Dominic Frontiere is fairly new but has already gained recognition for his musical arrangements and scores for movies and for television productions.

Among his scoring triumphs is the background music for the motion picture, The Young Lions, it happened in Las Vegas and 1000 Bedrooms.

Pagan Festival is a dramatic and unique album. It is a product of the writing for television and motion pictures, a relatively new musical field and one recognized as distinctly American.

Group Initiates Honors Members

Alpha Phi Sigma, honorary fraternity of those girls receiving their last grades at least two semesters in a row, has initiated new members.

The girls initiated at the tea given in their honor were Mary Beth Taylor, Sue Skelton, Shirley Lady, Marion Hart, Judy Engrau, Jeanne Baker and Judy Swecker.

The seniors receiving dean's list grades seven semesters in a row were also honored at the tea.
